CROP PROSPECTS.—Tobacco and corn were reaped from the fields last week, but were suffering for moisture when rains fell Wednesday forenoon and a night. But, for all that, the prospect is not good for more than a half crop on an average.

PROSPECTS IN TEXAS.—Rosenberg, Texas, July 28, 1910.—OUTLOOK: I thought I would write a few lines to let my old friends know that I am still living and enjoying good health, and hope this will find them enjoying the same.

The Claytons and the Lanes are all well except Will Lane, who has had a ten-days' lay off on account of an attack of bilious fever, but is out again.

We are having fine weather, and the Gulf breeze is fanning us just right. We have a fine prospect for good crops. Some are guessing their cotton at a bale per acre. Some corn is judged at 80 bushels per acre. From what I have seen in the four years that I have been here I think this is a fine agricultural country. All it needs is a few more Northern men with some push about them to take the place of the old natives who have no get-up about them. I have seen as many as seven car-loads of potatoes in one train going north. One farm shipped nine car-loads of last year's corn crop.

Land is still on the rise. The Lucas farm, that was offered to Jeff Atchison at $36 per acre when he was here, was sold about three months ago for $82. Two 90-acre that I offered Jeff at $27 sold two months ago at $35. Wm. Clayton was offered $80 for his land; he paid $12, but he has improved it; still, that would make him a good profit. I have been offered $55 for the land that I paid $12 for four years ago. My improvements have cost me $1,900.

You ought to see Judge Lane on the farm trying hay at the press. He and two other kids can easily do one man's work, and the besting too. He tells me he got his hay up in good shape. The hay crop is good this year, and thousands of tons have been shipped out at $7 per ton. But the price is down a little now.

I would advise everybody to come to Texas where the money is on the land; then they can see what will grow here. If anyone wants to know more, write me.

As ever, your friend, JAMES ALLEY.

P. S.—Find card for my renewal.

Mrs. Lydia Shouse's death.

Mrs. Lydia Shouse, a brief illness, died at her home in Salt Lick at 11:45 p. m. Saturday, July 30.

Funeral services were held at the residence at 1 p. m. Sunday by Elder N. C. Carpenter, after which the interment was made at the Marshall cemetery at 2 p. m. The pall-bearers were Dr. C. L. Cook, Dr. L. F. Robbins, Allen H. Pease, T. B. Stagg, D. H. Hall and J. T. Evans.

Deceased was born Dec. 15, 1838. Her maiden name was Myers, she being a granddaughter of Jacob Myers, a Kentucky pioneer, who built the old State Creek Furnace about 1782.

She was married to Green B. Shouse, one of the most prominent citizens of the Salt Lick neighborhood, and they reared the following children: Isaac; Mrs. Press Jackson, deceased; Mrs. W. R. Stephens, Mrs. Robert Dickerson, James Lee, deceased; Wm. Jefferson and Mrs. Boone North. Mr. Shouse died many years ago.

Mrs. Shouse was a most estimable lady, enjoying the love and respect of many friends, who sincerely mourn her decease. This OUTLOOK joins in condolences to the bereaved family.

TO FILL VACANCY.—A meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee of the Ninth Congressional district will probably be held in Lexington during the Blue Grass Fair to elect a member of the State Central Committee in place of Wm. Adams, who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor. R. D. Wilson, of Lewis county, and Gordon Selzer, of Mason county, are candidates for the place.

LADIES' HOME JOURNAL.

SENIOUS BUSINESS.—"Where's your father?" asked the man on horseback.

"Up the river fishin'," answered the boy.

"Where's your big brother?" "Down the river fishin'."

"What about your little sister?" "Diggin' bait."

"Hain't your family anything to do but amuse itself?"

"Wister, if you think we're doin' this for fun, you wait an' hear what maw says if we come home without any fish."—Washington Star.

The more a man can save going home of nights the more he will waste pretending that it was working late at the office.

READ THIS.—Notice No. 2.—I have sold out to R. Clyde Byron my interest in the GROCERY business, and a prompt settlement of your account is requested; and in order to wind up the old business, please call and settle at once. Thanking you for all past favors, 4-11

S. D. THOMPSON.

I have bought out my partner "Dud" Thompson. Come in and settle your account, and try me under the new cash system just adopted, as by a concentration of operating force and reduction of profits, I expect to make it to your interest to wind up your cash with me.

R. CLYDE BYRON.

Mrs. Chas. R. Barber's body was taken from Steptone through here Saturday afternoon for burial beside that of her husband at Fairview, Fleming county.

A baby daughter, named Emily Cleo, was born to Mrs. Robert Whaley, Jr. (nee Amanda Willson), of Bethel, recently.

Crit W. Young is building another house on Water street in the rear of his residence lot.

Oiling the streets with crude petroleum began Tuesday.

WHERE TO SMOOT HIM.—Outside the shop of Moses & Son, a figure, Ragged Robert happened that way, espied the coat, and, as it took his fancy rather, he exchanged it for his own and rapidly moved off.

Moses saw the thief running away and at once set up a hullabaloo. Calling to his son to bring "ze gun," he dashed off after the thief.

When within twenty yards of the thief Moses shouted to his son to shoot. The son got ready to do so, when—

"Rey!" roared Moses. "Mind ze coat! Be sure he was shoot in ze trousers!"—London Spare Moments.

TOO WISE FOR THAT.—"Rupert Guinness was defeated for Parliament," said a well-known Englishman.

"Guinness is well known. He is a great admirer of our American buck beer. He imports a keg of buck beer every spring."

"Guinness, the famous stout maker, told me a buck beer story last month."

"He said that about this time last year he heard that an American friend, being ill, had attempted suicide. So he wired to America to ask if it was true. His friend wired back:

"Suicide is a lie. Wouldn't be such a fool as to kill myself before the buck beer season."

DANGEROUS WORD.—A well dressed man entered a florist's shop, threw down a sovereign, and said he wanted some flowers to take home. He was very steady, having been on a spree, and the flowers were apparently intended as a domestic peace offering.

The florist picked up a dozen chrysanthemums and the customer started to leave the florist's.

At the door he hesitated. "I say," he said, "watch these flowers for me, please."

"Chrysanthemums."

"The customer shook his head. 'Gottar have something easier than that,' he said. 'Gimme a dozen pinks.'—Modern Society.

THE SABBATH.—Two Highland farmers met on their way to the church. "Man," said Donald, "I was wonderin' what you will be askin' for yon bit of sheep over at your steadin'?"

"Man," replied Douglas, "I was thinkin' I wd be wantin' fifty shillins for that sheep."

"Up the river fishin'," said Donald, "I will tak' it at that, but, oh, com, Douglas, I was awful surprised at you doin' business on the Sabbath."

"Business!" exclaimed Douglas. "Man, sellin' a sheep like that for fifty shillins is not business at all, it's just charity."

—Ladies' Home Journal.

TRANSMIGRATION.—One morning Jenkins looked over his garden wall and said to his neighbor: "Hey, what are you burying in that hole?"

"Oh," he said, "I'm just replanting some of my seeds; that's all."

"Seeds!" shouted Jenkins angrily. "It looks more like one of my hens."

"That's all right. The seeds are inside."

SUCH EXCELLENT MILK.—A simple hearted and truly devout country preacher, who had tasted but few of the drinks of the world, took dinner with a high-toned family, where a glass of milk punch was quietly set down by each plate. In silence and happiness this new Vicar of Wakefield quaffed his goblet and added: "Madam, you should daily thank God for such a good word."

"Once a Week."

LOGICAL.—"So you think Mars must be inhabited?"

"Yessuh," replied Uncle Rasper. "Dar ain't no doubt of it."

"What's mo', dem 'habitants' in allud folks. All dem canals wouldn't be no good without canal boats an' canal boats wouldn't be no good without folks. An' dar ain't no use tryin' to run any kin' o' mule business without de help o' 'cullud folks'."

RISKY FOR THE PRODIGAL.—Crusty Uncle (who is weary of being asked again and again for pecuniary assistance) Why the dickens don't you go home to your father and get him to kill the fattest cat?

Young Hard-up—He'd be a'jolly sight more likely to kill the prodigal son.—Leslie's.

The first real knowledge that a bride gets of a man is why he wants to go out and fight dragons all day, but will yell murder at home over a little stomach ache.

"Do You Suppose They Really Have Applewhite?"

The Girl at the Bar

By MEREDITH NICHOLS

ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WATKINS

SYNOPSIS.

Thomas Ardmore and Henry Miss O'Grady's acquaintance began when they met at a low house for a moment, and then O'Grady addressed Ardmore. "I don't know who you pretend to be, sir, but it may interest you to know that I am the governor of South Carolina."

"And this gentleman," cried Jerry, pointing to Ardmore, who was sitting at the bar, "though his hair is mussed and his coat is a little faded, is none other than the governor of North Carolina."

"Do you suppose they really have Applewhite?" asked Barbara. "Not for a minute!" replied Jerry. "If the cabinet has been burned down it is a serious matter."

"I wish you to remember, Mr. Ardmore, that you still have your reputation, and that I expect you to carry this matter through to a safe conclusion," said Jerry.

"I have no intention of falling, Miss O'Grady," said Jerry. "I am not a man who is easily turned and rode slowly back toward the house."

"Then, in a sequestered spot, O'Grady suddenly threw up his head and looked at the man who was sitting at the bar."

"Do you suppose they really have Applewhite?" asked Barbara. "Not for a minute!" replied Jerry. "If the cabinet has been burned down it is a serious matter."

HEROIC STATUE OF LINCOLN

GIFT OF J. B. SPEED WILL BE SET UP IN ROTUNDA OF NEW CAPITOL

Sculptor Who Modeled the Lincoln Monument at Hodgenville Has Been Commendation to Complete Work by Oct. 1, 1911.

Frankfort, Ky.—By October, 1911, a statue of Abraham Lincoln, the gift of J. B. Speed, of Louisville, will be placed in the rotunda of the new capitol building.

It was awarded to A. A. Wetman, of New York, who modeled the Lincoln monument at Hodgenville. It cost $15,000 and will be of heroic size, made of bronze.

Gov. Wilson wanted a monument of Lincoln for the capitol, but he wanted the best that could be made. He agreed the statue to some of his friends in Louisville, and Mr. Speed heard of it. He decided to present the statue with the statue of Lincoln.

"I wish you to remember, Mr. Ardmore, that you still have your reputation, and that I expect you to carry this matter through to a safe conclusion," said Jerry.

"I have no intention of falling, Miss O'Grady," said Jerry. "I am not a man who is easily turned and rode slowly back toward the house."

A Colonist of Canaan

By Izola Forrester

The Southwestern flier drew up at Canaan Junction. It never stopped. It merely slowed up long enough to throw out the mail sack and give the curby-bent man in the express car a chance to call.

But today it stopped, stopped while a man swung off a sleeper, and the porter dropped a suit case and grumbled on the platform beside him.

The man left behind was young, strong, and he had outgrown his years, about him that reminded one of a cub against the young men that they made him drunk and robbed him of $140.

Shelbyville.—Mrs. Sarah Dunn, 38, widow of James H. Dunn, died at her home here last night. She was 38 years of age. She is survived by four sons and two daughters—James H. Dunn, of Jeffersonville; John Dunn, of Bowling Green; Victor E. and Lawrence Dunn, of Shelbyville; Mrs. Ada Maxwell, matron of the penitentiary; and Miss Eva Dunn, of Shelbyville.

Shelbyville.—Sheriff Bob Gossard delivered Rufus Browder to the penitentiary here. In thirty minutes after the verdict Sheriff Gossard left Frankfort for the penitentiary. He is now waiting to seize the negro murderer who took the life of James Cunningham, a young man of this county, who was shot by the negro murderer.

Mr. Sterling—Albert Bots, 18, son of Mason Bots, this city, was thrown from a horse while riding at the fair grounds and dangerously hurt. The horse was thrown against a tree, breaking three ribs and fracturing the skull.

Lexington.—T. R. Lewis, of Knoxville, and Floyd Evans and R. M. Evans, of Chatsanooga, are in jail here charged with robbery. E. O. Sparks, of this city, charged in warrants against the young men that they made him drunk and robbed him of $140.

Frankfort.—N. S. Moore, one of the wealthiest farmers of this county, shot himself while walking in a woodland near here. When the negroes, who were too scared to investigate for themselves, had seen the help him, he was dead with a pistol wound just over the heart.

Mayville.—Orville Politt, aged about 20, residing near Mayville, this county, was tried here before Magistrate Pickard for unlawfully detaining Mrs. Nannie Politt, wife of Walter Politt, against her will. He was bound over to the grand jury in the sum of $200, in default of which he was sent to jail.

Mayville.—While taking a traction car to the Postoffice to receive several miles east of here, and while crossing a bridge the structure gave away, and the car fell into the creek, wrecking it and probably fatally injuring Carl Rayburn, who was in the car, and seriously wounding Otha Haylip and Robert Gann.

Frankfort.—Pursuant to the call of the commission of Agriculture, the live stock sanitary board met here and decided to institute a school for October 1, 1911, just before here. The school will be held at the state fair in Louisville this year. The inspectors will be lectured by experts from the department of agriculture, and the state university. Another letter was sent to the county judges urging them to help pay for the school.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

We are authorized to announce Will J. Fields, of Carter county, as a candidate for Congress in the Ninth district, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce Archimedes Dickerson as a candidate for Circuit Court Clerk of Bath County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

SOME paragrapher opines that the Peerless One lost his leadership in his home State because he was leading a bareless campaign.

DETECTIVE CARMY, of Louisville, covered himself with glory in trailing down Wendling, suspected of the murder of little Alma Kellner, and securing his arrest, even if he wasn't in at the finish.

WIRELESS telegraphed led to the arrest of Dr. Crippen, wanted on the charge of wife murder in London, on board a ship as it neared Quebec. The doctor, a fugitive from justice is held, but the murderer of Miss Siegel is still at large.

TEDDY's nephew and namesake Theodore Douglas, who couldn't profit by his illustrious kinsman's fame sufficiently to win the Republican Congressional nomination in the 27th New York district, and Teddy had promised to stump for him if nominated.

JEFFERSON county has won its act against the raise of 12 per cent. of assessed valuation of property by the State Board of Equalization, and the sheriff will equalize the tax without the added per cent. The case will now go to the Court of Appeals for final settlement.

WM. JENNINGS BRYAN lost his leadership of his home State last week at the National Democratic convention, which overwhelmingly defeated his local option proposition. He was a loss in his day, but his day can't come back, though he will never concede it. If he would retire the Democrats would stand a good chance to come back into power at Washington.

Two farmers in Fayette county fell out over the comparative seediness of a tobacco crop, which they did, one being fatally wounded, and the other killed outright. One was aged 68 years, and the other 47. Such rivalries are too often the origin of tragedies in Kentucky.

THE Ohio Republican State convention resulted in a harmonious gathering and the nomination of Warren G. Harding for Governor on a platform endorsing the Taft administration and the work of the late session of Congress. The insurgent element got their man, the Standpatters theirs, and all their platform. If Harmon beats Harding it will make him a formidable Presidential candidate.

Lewis county, 6 votes, and Rowan, 4, each went for W. J. Fields for the 9th District Democratic Congressional nomination at Carlisle Wednesday, July 27. Fields winning on the first ballot by 61 votes to Edgar B. Hager's 4.

Fields made a surprising race, and enters the campaign with a harmonious party supporting him. It is confidently expected for him by his friends that he will make heavy inroads on the Republican vote. If true he will readily wipe out the Republican majority.

INSURGENT JAR. A. GARFIELD, who thought he was a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor of Ohio, emerged from the debris piled on him by Boss Cox and Senator Dick and said manfully that he shouldered all the blame of the bungling conduct of the Insurgent battle against the Standpatters. If Harrison doesn't defeat Harding it will be because the Insurgents of Ohio can stand anything better than party irregularity.

JOHN G. CARLISLE died in New York City at 10:50 o'clock p. m. Sunday. He was one of Kentucky's greatest sons, and a statesman of the first rank in the nation. He had few if any equals in rapid mastery of a subject and its clear presentation in speech or writing. He filled many official positions, and always with the highest distinction. He was shamefully abused during the free-silver craze, but he lived to see his course fully vindicated. Men of his quality of mind are rare in centuries.

REVENUES AND PROSPERITY.—The announcement is made that the revenues of this country have reached high-water mark and it is generally assumed that this is a most happy condition.

What this country really needs is less revenue, not more. What we need is a government economically administered, not one with branches, city, State and national. The burdens of taxation are heavy. Millions—hundreds of millions—of dollars taken from the taxpayers are wasted.

An increase of revenues may be an index of prosperity, just as the mercury is an index of warm weather; but it does not make prosperity any more than the mercury makes warm weather.

On the contrary, all taxation is a snail deducted from prosperity, so much taken away from men who have made it and who are unable to extend their capacity to employ it wisely, and given to agents that spend it—part of it wisely and part of it unwisely.

Furthermore, the increased revenues now collected come from new taxes. The tax falls on the small corporation, the remaining competitor of the great trust. It is an unnecessary tax and in itself an unwise tax; in its operation unequal and therefore most unjust. The government does not need this money as the business interests of the country need it today.

Twenty-five millions are to be taken from the tills of the small merchant and manufacturer, or taken from their deposits in bank, at the very moment when they need it in the past five years, and given to a government that is spending over three millions a day every day in the year, including Sunday, one million of which, according to Mr. Aldrich, is sheer waste.

We do not make wealth by waste. We do not promote prosperity by extravagance. We make money just as we make crops or make chairs by hard labor, by self-denying labor, by continued industry, by wise foresight, by frugality, and we make it in no other way. We cannot create something out of nothing. We can abstract money just as we make crops or make chairs from the pockets of men who have made it.

We have in society a large class of men who live by the wit, so-called, and take money without rendering service; pool-room managers, race-track men, cases the courts rather serve to postpone settlement of these controversies, and in that case they fail to justify their existence and become an unnecessary burden on the body politic.

All wise men, all statesmen, of this country, all the great cities, all premiers of governments, all presidents of countries who are fit to serve the people, know that the best of wisdom is to take as little in the form of tax from the people as the absolute necessities of an economic government well demand.

We have had no such rule of action in the past twelve months anywhere. The rule is to take all from the people that the people will stand without overthrowing the party in power.

Now to reconcile the people to unwise exactions they are told that they are prosperous and that because the government is collecting show this prosperity.

The people in the main are prosperous, but they are not prosperous because the government is collecting show this prosperity. The exactions of the predatory classes and the further exactions of government agencies; they are prosperous because they work.

A HARD HEART.—An itinerant preacher preached to a cowboy audience on the "Prodigal Son." He described the foolish prodigal who squandered and dissipated; he described his penury and huck-eating with the swine in the far country. He described his return and his father's loving welcome, the rejoicing and the preparation of the fatted calf.

But Clark, in his discourse noticed a cowboy staring at him very hard. He thought he had made a convert, and addressing the cowboy personally, he said from the pulpit:

"My friend, what would you have done if you had had a prodigal returning home like that?" "Me?" said the cowboy, fiercely. "I'd have shot the boy and raised the calf."—Detroit Free Press.

NEWSPAPERS IN TROUBLE.

Special agents of the postoffice department are traveling around the country dropping into newspaper offices when least expected to examine subscription lists, to ascertain if the regulation requiring payment of subscription is being observed. Several Iowa newspapers have been in trouble and here is a case told by the Des Moines Capital:

Editor Fay, of Lyons, Iowa, has been called to Washington city not to swell paid up as a subscriber, but to get paid up as a quiver. He will have to explain to the government officials why he has not compelled his subscribers to pay up according to the postal laws. It seems a little tough that country editors have to be hauled up before the government under the charge of violating federal laws just because they do not eternally keep running their subscribers for the small sums they owe on subscriptions, but it is like the end of the world, no one knows when it cometh, and no editor is he compelled to force his collections unless he has an unusual prompt paying list of subscribers."

The Bee, a newspaper published at Jefferson, has been jerked up. This is what the editor says about it:

"The Bee this morning received a first official summons from the postoffice department to conform with the ruling which requires subscribers to keep their subscriptions paid up. We can no longer send the paper to delinquents, no matter how willing we may be to accommodate them. We sometimes question the wisdom of Sam to interfere in the conduct of a legitimate business, and why we shall not extend credit if we wish to, but whether right or wrong we must conform to the ruling, or we will be shut out of a lot of good and long time patrons who we know intend to pay, but are careless about the matter, and if such really are in this embarrassment."

It is very dangerous business for a newspaper man to send papers to subscribers who are more than twelve months in arrears. It is a sure way to get into trouble with the rulings, which is the business, for the expense of putting a one-cent stamp on every paper mailed amounts to much more than the profits on the subscription business, to say nothing of the increased amount of labor which would be required in affixing the stamps.—Publishers' Auxiliary.

Herbert A. Kline's Aggregation of Shows.

This Amusement Company Has Played the Most Important Parts of the Northwest.

At the Blue Grass Fair at Lexington the week of August 8th to 15th will be seen the famous Herbert A. Kline aggregation of shows, which has come to be known as the "best money value" of any show ever seen.

Mr. Kline has played all the largest and most important state fairs of the Northwest. This will mark his first appearance in the South and the management of the Blue Grass Fair is particularly fortunate in being able to secure him for Lexington.

There will be some twelve or fourteen shows in the Kline aggregation, all of them new, with features not seen in similar shows, and before them will be a parade of some 2000 head of prize animals.

West Wind Shows. The big Buckskin Bill Wolf and Dog and Pig Show is not only the largest but one of the most interesting of the different shows. It abounds with exciting features characteristic of the west.

Now to reconcile the people to unwise exactions they are told that they are prosperous and that because the government is collecting show this prosperity.

The people in the main are prosperous, but they are not prosperous because the government is collecting show this prosperity. The exactions of the predatory classes and the further exactions of government agencies; they are prosperous because they work.

A Model City. In the famous Kemp's Model City, a wonder that no other carnival company in the entire country can offer. It is a model of a modern city in miniature, and is considered to be the best and most wonderful mechanical exhibition in the world.

There is the Little Rustler Prince, the most famous midget as well as the smallest man on earth. This diminutive dignitary is a human doll, twenty-five inches high, thirty-two years old and weighs only sixteen pounds. He speaks fluently English, Russian and German. He spent his boyhood in a cradle made of a clear box. While he is so small that an ordinary man can hold him in his hand, he will nevertheless prove the most popular and most sought after man on the Blue Grass Fair grounds.

An Antithesis. In direct contrast to him was Elma aged twenty-one, and weighing seven feet and thirty-nine pounds, the human antithesis of the far-famed Rustler Prince. When with him she appears on the platform the two make a pair that is a marvel to all who see them.

BAND NUMBERS 45

Russian Has Few Equals and No Superior.

Management of Blue Grass Fair Has Secured Thru Famous Russian Bands.

Probably the concert band which has attracted greatest attention through the country is the Russian band. It is the only Russian band in the two seasons in the splendid aggregation of musicians joined together under the direction of Th. Thavis, the famous Russian band-master. The success of the Thavis band at every season has played has been duly attested by the fact that each city is more than anxious always to have the band render. The good fortune of the management of the Blue Grass Fair is being able to secure this band, therefore, especially notable.

Mr. Thavis has few equals and no superior as a leader. His band composes every element of efficiency necessary to the greatest success and the most pleasing effect. It numbers in it the best of all of them stars in their respective categories. In addition the band carries with it a troupe of Russian singing and dancing girls who are themselves one of the most notable features ever seen with any band.

The Thavis band will give a morning, afternoon and evening concert each day throughout the week of August. This troupe of Russian dancers appearing at such performance. The excellence of the music at the Blue Grass Fair has always been one of its features of outstanding merit. The management feels secure in predicting that Thavis will please the public as no other band that ever appeared in Lexington has.

It is considered to be the greatest and the most successful of the fair week at Lexington. It is a most notable and a splendid soprano soloist with band.
